17/11/2026 The new Porsche Service Centre Kolkata spans more than 32,000 square feet, strengthening the brand's aftersales capabilities in Eastern India with advanced technical infrastructure and dedicated electric vehicle repair facilities.

India |Porsche India has inaugurated its new Porsche Service Centre Kolkata marking a significant milestone in the expansion of its aftersales network in Eastern India.

Developed by Porsche India's dealer partner, Bird Group, the new facility is the largest Porsche aftersales centre in the country, offering enhanced service capabilities and a premium customer experience.

Spanning more than 32,000 square feet, the state-of-the-art facility has been designed in accordance with Porsche's latest global Corporate Identity standards. The new service centre features dedicated customer consultation areas and specialised workshops, providing customers with a comprehensive range of aftersales services in a modern environment.

The facility is equipped to undertake routine maintenance, advanced diagnostics and mechanical repairs, alongside more specialised services through dedicated structural and multi-material repair bays. The expanded infrastructure allows Porsche Centre Kolkata to support a wide range of technical requirements while maintaining the high standards of service associated with the Porsche brand.

A key highlight of the new service centre is its advanced electric vehicle repair infrastructure, including a dedicated high-voltage repair area and specialised battery repair capabilities. Porsche Service Centre Kolkata is the only facility in Eastern India equipped to undertake dedicated Porsche battery repairs, further strengthening the brand's ability to support its growing electrified vehicle portfolio.

"The inauguration of our largest aftersales facility in India reflects our continued commitment to strengthening the Porsche ownership experience and expanding our service capabilities across the country," said Ashutosh Dixit, Head of Porsche India.

"Kolkata and Eastern India are important markets for Porsche, and this investment, together with our long-standing dealer partner Bird Group, ensures that we are well positioned to support both our existing model range and the evolving technical requirements of our electric vehicles. Our focus remains on providing customers with the highest standards of expertise, service and care throughout their ownership journey."

The new facility represents a significant investment in Porsche India's aftersales infrastructure, combining advanced technical equipment with dedicated customer areas to deliver an efficient and personalised service experience. Its specialised repair capabilities also reflect the increasing importance of technical readiness as Porsche continues to expand its portfolio of electrified vehicles.

"We are proud to inaugurate this new facility, which represents an important step forward in our commitment to Porsche customers in Kolkata and across Eastern India," said Gaurav Bhatia, Dealer Principal of Porsche Centre Kolkata.

"With more than 32,000 square feet of dedicated service space and advanced capabilities covering mechanical, structural, multi-material and high-voltage repairs, we are able to provide customers with comprehensive aftersales support under one roof. Together with Porsche India, we remain committed to delivering a premium, efficient and customer-focused ownership experience."

As Porsche India continues to develop its retail and aftersales network, the new service centre marks another step in ensuring customers have access to the technical expertise, infrastructure and personalised support expected throughout their Porsche ownership journey.
